GENEALOGY

OF THE

Family of Collier Barksdale,

CHARLOTTE COUNTY, VIRGINIA.

1st Generation ————— 2

The father of Collier Barksdale (Christian name unknown) emigrated to America early in the last century from England; settled in Halifax county, Virginia, near Barksdale's Depot. He married a Miss Collier of Virginia.

It is not known to the writer how many children they reared. We only know of two sons, Collier and Nathaniel. They were born in Halifax county. Collier removed to Charlotte county; Nathaniel lived and died in Halifax county. We do not know who Collier Barksdale married, nor the exact number of his children. In this little work we give the record of seven. Two sons, Nathaniel and William, settled in South Carolina about the beginning of the Revolutionary war. The other five settled in Georgia about 1789—Joseph, John, Lucy, Ally, Sallie. They removed to Georgia after the death of their father. He had been to Petersburg in company with his son John, to dispose of a load of tobacco. On his way home he was taken with a violent spell of colic and died on his wagon before reaching his home.

In religion, the Barksdales are generally Baptists.

RECORD OF NATHAN BARKSDALE AND MARY ALLEN.

Nathan Barksdale, son of Collier Barksdale of Charlotte county, Virginia, was born in that county 1743; emigrated with his brother William to South Carolina about the beginning of the Revolutionary war. He settled in 96th district, afterwards district of Laurens, which was organized in 1785. It is now county of Laurens.

Nathan Barksdale was married 1779 to Mary Allen, who was born 1756. She was a sister of Charles Allen, Sr., of Laurens district. They reared their family near Laurens C. H. He died September, 1812, and she 1835.

Nathan was a man of eminent piety, a strict member of the Baptist church. He was kind and benevolent, maintained a high character for honesty and integrity in all of his transactions, had the confidence of his neighbors, was the trusted adviser and friend of all who knew him.

Charles Allen, Sr., was a devoted Whig, and several of his sons were killed in the Revolutionary war: his son Charles, known as "Esquire Allen," surviving the war and becoming widely known as a representative man.

Nathan Barksdale and his brother William were also staunch Whigs.

The children of Nathan Barksdale and Mary Allen were five sons and six daughters.

- First. Collier, born 1780; married Mary Franks; died 1846.
- Second. Allen, born December 25, 1783; married Nancy Downs 1809; died December 7, 1870.

Fourth. Mary married Samuel Franks. One son, killed or died in the late war; several children living; one son—T. B. Frank and one daughter—Nancy.

- Fifth. Alfred married Elizabeth Bolt. Two sons—John and James—killed or died during the war; one son—A. B. Barksdale—now living in Laurens, S. C., farmer. Mrs. Downey, Mrs. Crawford, still living; Mrs. Elizabeth Teague, Mrs. Ellen Duckett, both dead; also Emma.

Sixth. Ethalinda married Asa Forgy. One daughter living—Mrs. Teague.

Allen Barksdale, second son of Nathan, was born December 25, 1783; married Nancy Downs, daughter of Joseph Downs, in 1809; died December 7, 1870. He was sheriff of Laurens district in 1824 to 1828; afterwards elected and served several terms in the legislature; was prominent in all public affairs in his district. His wife, Nancy Downs, was daughter of Joseph Downs and Jane Alexander. Joseph was a son of Henry Downs of England, and Jane Douglas, of Scotland. Joseph Downs was a brother of Major Jonathan Downs of Revolutionary fame, both prominent in the history of Laurens, S. C., Major Downs having named Laurens district for his friend Henry Laurens, who was the first president of the Congress of the Confederation.

Jane Alexander, mother of Nancy Downs, was a daughter of Abram Alexander of Mecklenburg, N. C., president of the famous Mecklenburg Convention, May, 1775.

We copy from the Laurensville (S. C.) Herald of December 7, 1870, the following in reference to the death of Allen Barksdale:

“Mr Barksdale was born in Laurens district, within a mile of where he died. He was no ordinary man. During all the active years of his long life he was identified with whatever redounded to the best interest of the people of Laurens. He was often honored with the trusts of the people—as often, perhaps, as his consent could be obtained. He was sheriff of the district, represented the people for several terms in the legislature, and was commissioner of public buildings for almost half a century; in all of which positions he made himself useful to the people, and always exhibited that stern integrity, uncompromising virtue, great good sense, and sterling worth so characteristic of his whole life. To be useful, upright, virtuous, charitable, kind, active, intelligent, and energetic is to be truly great, and these and their kindred virtues made up the character of this truly great man. He had been in happy union with the Baptist church for more than forty years, and his ennobling virtues had brought him in his silver hairs that which is always seemly accompanying, and the crown of old age, honor, love, obedience, troops of friends, with a quiver full of descendants of whom any man should justly be proud. For the past few years we have only seen him in public occasionally, when no man could but admire his manly port, his finely-cut face, ruddy countenance, with his luxuriously flowing silvery hair. As often as we have seen him have we been forcibly reminded of the dignified Roman senator, as he occasionally repaired to the Senate House in the palmiest days of Rome, to see that the republic suffered no detriment. Honesty, integrity, high purpose, noble resolve sat on his brow and was written on his face, and his heart was open as day to melting charity. Laurens has, perhaps, never had a citizen more useful, a man more generally and deservedly esteemed for all that is good, true and noble. After a well-spent life—in the evening, in the autumn of his life, in the season when the leaves are falling and all nature wears a sad face, 'he fell like autumn fruit that mellowed long.' Such had been his life—so useful, well-spent, honorable—that when summoned to his place in the halls of death, he was sustained and soothed by these high virtues and unflinching trust, and approached his grave

'Like one that draws the drapery of his couch about him,
And lies down to pleasant dreams.'

Allen and Nancy Downs Barksdale reared five sons and four daughters

Captain James Peter Barksdale, son of Elisha and Judith A. Barksdale, was killed at the battle of Hatcher's Run, Va., a few days before the surrender of the Southern troops.

The information of William and Peter Barksdale's families, who were sons of Nathaniel, Sr., and Mourning Dickerson, was furnished by Mrs. Judith A. Barksdale, of Rodden, Va. Miss Lizzie V. Crews furnished the record of William Peter Barksdale's family.

Nathaniel Barksdale, Jr., son of Nathaniel, Sr., and Mourning Dickerson, was born in Halifax county, Virginia, in 1764 or 1765; married Ann Garden; moved to Rutherford county, Tennessee, in 1808; died there in 1830. They reared four sons: first, William; second, Randolph; third, Nathaniel; fourth, James G.

First, William was married in 1813 to Nancy H. Lester, of Williamson county, Tennessee, formerly of Charlotte county, Virginia. She died July, 1825, and he in July, 1835. They left four sons—William R., Fountain, Ethelbert, Harrison. After the death of their parents these four youths, the eldest not more than twenty-one, left their old home in Rutherford county, Tennessee, moved to Mississippi, and made that their future home. Mississippi had cause to be proud of her adopted sons: she never had four braver, nobler, or more devoted sons than the Barksdale brothers.

 William Barksdale, the father of these young men, was in the famous battle of New Orleans, 1815.

William R. Barksdale married Narcissa Smith, who died in 1875. They had two sons: one died in 1877 about twenty years of age, the other, Ethelbert E. Barksdale, died at his home in Sherman, Texas, July 18, 1892.

When John J. McRae was elected Governor of Mississippi in 1853, William R. Barksdale was elected to the Senate of the United States for the long term. Near the close of Governor McRae's second term he was again elected to Congress. After the States seceded and formed a Confederacy and Jefferson Davis was elected president, Major Charles Clark was appointed major-general of the Mississippi State troops, and William R. Barksdale brigadier-general. He immortalized himself at the famous battle of Gettysburg, Pa., July, 1863, your number of 33 - 34 - 35 - 36 - 37 - 38 - 39 - 40 - 41 - 42 - 43 - 44 - 45 - 46 - 47 - 48 - 49 - 50 - 51 - 52 - 53 - 54 - 55 - 56 - 57 - 58 - 59 - 60 - 61 - 62 - 63 - 64 - 65 - 66 - 67 - 68 - 69 - 70 - 71 - 72 - 73 - 74 - 75 - 76 - 77 - 78 - 79 - 80 - 81 - 82 - 83 - 84 - 85 - 86 - 87 - 88 - 89 - 90 - 91 - 92 - 93 - 94 - 95 - 96 - 97 - 98 - 99 - 100 and was there killed while leading his brigade of brave Mississippians. His home was in Jackson, Miss.

Fountain Barksdale, son of William and Nancy H. Lester Barksdale, is now past seventy-eight years of age; is the last of the four brothers. His home is in Yazoo City, Miss., where he has been merchandising for many years. He has one son—Fountain, Jr.; married, but has no children. Two daughters; one married Thos. B. Craig of Yazoo City; the other a Mr. Craig. Both have children.

Major Ethelbert Barksdale, son of William and Nancy Lester Barksdale, married Alice J. Harris. They reared one son—Edwin, who is now living near Yazoo City; one daughter—Mrs. Ethel Harrington of Jackson, Miss. Major Barksdale's widow is also living in Jackson. Major Ethel Barksdale was a prominent man in Mississippi. He was a member of the Confederate Congress; was also elected in November, 1882, to the Forty-Eighth Congress; was re-elected to the Forty-Ninth in 1884. He established the Yazoo Democrat, at Yazoo City, in 1845. He was once editor of the Mississippiian; also, of the Clarion Ledger, both published in Jackson, Miss. Was considered an able editor.

Harrison Barksdale, son of William and Nancy Lester Barksdale, died at Tupelo, Miss., July 10, 1862, while serving the Confederate cause. Left one son—Hon. James A. Barksdale.

Hon. James A. Barksdale, son of Harrison and Laura C. Barksdale, was born December 3, 1854, on the "Oak Valley Plantation," nine miles below Yazoo City. He married Miss Henderson of Savannah, Ga., in 1890. She died in 1892. He died October 14, 1894. They left one son, James A., who is now with his grandmother, Mrs. Henderson of Savannah, Ga.

Hon. James A. Barksdale had been prominent in all public affairs of Yazoo county for twenty years. He was universally esteemed. He had been deputy sheriff, chancery clerk, and a distinguished member of the legislature; was chairman of the Congressional Executive Committee of the Fifth district at the time of his death. He was faithful to every trust. He was educated at Trinity College, North Carolina. After leaving college he, for a time, edited the Banner, published in Yazoo City.

Says the Yazoo Scimitar in reference to him: "His was a fine character, lofty and noble. He was one of the most manly men we have ever known. His integrity was beyond suspicion; his honor no man questioned. His endeavor was to see the right and then the right pursue. His word was his bond; he was never known to forfeit it. He loved his friends, and cheerfully honored any draft they might make upon him. He had his enemies, as has every man of strong, positive character, but he never pursued them with spite or vindictiveness, and commanded their respect."

Some information concerning the family of Nathaniel, Jr., furnished by Fountain Barksdale, of Yazoo City, Miss.:

Third, Randolph Barksdale, son of Nathaniel, Jr., and Ann Garden, was married, 1815, to Mary H. Read. Issue, three sons—John Nash, Clement, Thomas; two daughters,—Eliza, Ann.

Eliza died in infancy.

John Nash graduated from Chapel Hill, N. C. Was admitted to the bar; practiced law successfully for several years in Woodbury, Tenn. Afterwards located in Columbus, Miss.; formed a partnership with his cousin, Hon. William Barksdale (General Barksdale), which continued until his death, which occurred in 1844. He was one of the most brilliant young men of his age. Columbus (Miss.) Democrat says of him: "Mr. Barksdale came amongst us a few years since an entire stranger, but soon the urbanity of his deportment, the unaffected goodness of his heart, and the brilliancy of his intellect doubly endeared him to all. He was a kind friend, a good citizen, and an ornament to the State." (Unmarried.)

Clement was drowned while returning from school, fell from a foot-log crossing a creek.

Ann married Robert W. White, a lawyer of prominence of Woodbury, Tenn. He died young, leaving two children—Robert and Mary.

Robert died young.

Mary married Hon. Robert Williamson, now of Greenville, Miss.

Thomas Barksdale, the youngest of the family, died in Chulahoma, Miss., unmarried.

After the death of his first wife Randolph Barksdale married Susan Williams of Rutherford county, Tenn., November 25, 1824. Issue, one son—Rev. William Henry Barksdale, now of Barfield, Ark.

Randolph Barksdale was again married in 1830 to Jacobina Norflut. Issue, three sons—Nathaniel, James, Robert.

Nathaniel died in Chulahoma, Miss., unmarried.

James was a colonel in the Confederate army. Was killed while gallantly leading his men in a battle in Virginia. Unmarried.

Robert was a young lawyer of promise, practicing in Helena, Ark., prior to the late war. He fell at the battle of Shiloh, while nobly battling for Southern rights. Unmarried.

This information of Randolph Barksdale's family was furnished by Rev. W. H. Barksdale of Bartfield, Ark.

Rev. W. H. Barksdale was married first July, 1849, to Mary F. Bookett, daughter of Dr. William T. Bookett of Murfreesboro. Issue, one son—W. R. Barksdale of the firm of Barksdale & Denton Memphis, Tenn; one daughter—Mrs. Mary S. Carver of Memphis.

Rev. W. H. Barksdale's second wife was Lucy Donoho, to whom he was married in 1867. Issue, one son—Jefferson Donoho.

Rev. W. H. Barksdale began to preach in his nineteenth year. Was ordained in Rutherford county, Tennessee, by the Middleton Baptist Church.

Third. Nathaniel, son of Nathaniel, Jr., died many years ago in Tennessee. Some twenty years ago his family were living in Gibson county, Tennessee. Two of his sons were printers.

Fourth. Dr. James G. Barksdale, son of Nathaniel, Jr., died in Shelbyville, Tenn., 1884, past eighty years of age. Left no children.

CLAIBORN BARKSDALE.

Clairborn Barksdale was born in Charlotte county, Virginia. He lived and died in that county. He was twice married; first to a Miss Morton. After her death he married a Miss Carter. He had three sons—Clairborn, William, and Grief; six daughters—Lucy, Susannah, Mary; names of the others not known.

Clairborn, Jr., married Sarah Read, daughter of Rev. Clement Read of Charlotte county. To them were born seven sons and three daughters: Albert, Clairborn, Clement R., Charles H., Edward M., Isaac R., and Thomas E. Mary Jane, who married Dr. William A. Fuqua. Cora A. married Charles H. Hunt, Esq. Maria Louisa married Judge Wood Bouldin, of the Court of Appeals of Virginia.

[We cannot trace the ancestry of this family as far back as the other families of Barksdales, but believe them to be descendants of Collier Barksdale of Charlotte county, as some of his children remained in Charlotte.] This information was furnished by Colonel Thomas E. Barksdale of Whitlock, Halifax county, Virginia.

Nicholas Barksdale removed to Georgia before 1789; settled on the Savannah river near what is now known as Barksdale's Ferry. He was related to Collier and Nathaniel Barksdale; perhaps a brother, but we are not certain of the fact. Some of his descendants are living in Wilkes, Elbert, and Lincoln. Thomas and James were men of character and prominence, representing Wilkes and Lincoln in the legislature several terms.

HANNAH AND DANIEL BARKSDALE.

There was a family of Barksdales who moved from Virginia to Georgia and settled in Hancock county before 1800. They were related to the Collier Barksdale branch, but we do not know the name of their ancestor. Hannah Barksdale and Daniel belonged to this branch. Hannah was twice married. Her first husband was Berry Long. By this marriage she had four children; two sons—William and Alfred; two daughters—Emily and Mary.

William Long was married three times. First to Susan Ann Heeth. She left no children. He then married her sister Jane. She left a son, Alfred, who married a Miss Cason. William Long's third wife was Sarah Fowler, daughter of William Fowler of Warren county. Issue, one daughter, who married Prior Veazy, son of Rev. Thos. Veazy of Warren county.

Alfred Long, son of Berry and Hannah Long, married Mary Cason, daughter of Adam Cason of Warren county.

Emily Long married Manum Jones of Warren. Issue, four daughters—Josephine, Georgia, Willie, Virginia Boyd.

Josephine married Thomas L. Wheeler of Warren county. She left two sons and two daughters.

Georgia Jones married William Anderson of Norwood. Issue, three sons and two daughters.

Willie Jones married William Collier Barksdale of Warren county. Issue, five daughters and one son.

Virginia B. Jones married Stokes Pate of Warren. No issue.

Mary Long married Benjamin Heeth of Warren county. Issue, one son—William, and two daughters—Emily and Exie.

William Heeth has been married three times. First to Mrs. Cornelia Wheeler. Issue, two sons—Ben and Jesse, and one daughter—Eddie. His second wife was Ida Hubert. No children. Third, Mrs. Holloway. No children.

Emily Heeth married Benjamin F. Hubert. Issue, three sons and two daughters.

Exie Heeth married James Ivey of Warren county. Issue, three sons and one daughter.

Hannah Barksdale's second husband was Anthony Jones, of Warren county. Issue, two sons—Louis and Dink, and two daughters—Sarah and Mitt.

Louis Jones was twice married. First to Mary Humphrey. Issue, one daughter—Emma, who was accidentally killed when about fourteen years of age by a little boy who was playing with a loaded pistol, not knowing that it was loaded. His wife was killed in a cyclone March 20, 1875. She was in the church at Elam when the storm struck the building and blew it down. She was the only one killed out of sixty who were in the house. His second wife was Mary E. Wicker, daughter of Colonel N. A. Wicker of Warrenton, Ga. Issue, several daughters. Louis Jones died 1887.

Dink Jones married Fannie Harris. Issue, several daughters.

Sarah Jones married Thomas Hopkins. Issue, one daughter—Toodie, who married John B. Barksdale of Warren county. Issue, six sons and three daughters.

Mitt Jones married Ezra McCrary. Issue, two daughters—Lizzie, who married Buford Thomas, and Ellie, married.

Nothing is known of the family of Daniel Barksdale, who was brother to Hannah. He died in Alabama.

Green Barksdale, who for a long while was a resident of Powelton, was a nephew of Daniel and Hannah. He married Celia Connell. Left no children.

W. D. Barksdale, of Abbeville, S. C., is a grandson of Benjamin Barksdale, who emigrated to Abbeville from Rappahannock county, Virginia. We cannot trace this family, but presume they are related to the Collier and Nathaniel branches.
